Dr. Todd Bullard Inaugurated As President

Educators Visit Local Campus, Hold Meetings

Experts Confer With Committees on Terminal Education, Transfer Program

During the month of May the college welcomed several experts on community colleges and technical education.

Visiting with the faculty on May 3, 4 and 5, was Dr. Norman Harris of the University of Michigan. Dr. Harris, who has a number of publications in this field, conferred with the faculty committee studying terminal education.

On May 17 and 18, Dr. Max Smith and Dr. Edward Blackman of Michigan State University, were on campus. Dr. Smith is the director of the Office of Community College Cooperation; Dr. Blackman is the assistant dean of the University College. They met with the faculty and conferred with the committee studying our transfer program.

Dr. Smith was a member of the North Central Association evaluating team that visited Potomac State last spring.

Speakers Named For Graduation

Dr. Carl M. Frasure, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at West Virginia University, will address graduates of Potomac State College during the 62nd annual commencement ceremonies on Friday morning, May 28.

The preceding evening the annual sermon to the graduating class will be delivered by Dr. Frederick Helfer, minister of the Christian Temple in Baltimore.

Pres. Bullard Receives Medallion

Dr. Todd H. Bullard is shown receiving a medallion signifying the presidency of Potomac State College from Okey B. Glenn (right), president of the Board of Governors. Prof. James T. Handlan (left) ceremony marshal, assists while Governor Hulet C. Smith looks on.

Plans Studied for Alumni Memorial On Local Campus

Several proposals for erection of some type of memorial statuary on the college campus are being considered by a special committee following approval of such a project by alumni gathered at the annual homecoming luncheon last fall.

An initial meeting was conducted recently by Joseph Stanislawczyk ('48) who was appointed chairman by Alumni President Thomas J. Conlon.

Working with the chairman on the discussion and planning sessions are Phillip B. Jordon, Ray C. Coffman, Lester R. McDowell and members of the official Alumni Board. In addition to Conlon, they include: Joseph W. Kessel ('48), Kenneth F. Haines ('50), Mrs. Mary Evelyn Coffman ('36), Mrs. Elizabeth P. Hanlin ('42), Mrs. Dawn S. Jeffries ('44), Miss Mary Calemone ('43), and President Todd H. Bullard.

Additional committee members from the alumni ranks will be

Foundation Still Accepting Funds For Scholarships

The 1965 campaign of the Potomac State College Alumni Foundation, Inc., which opened in February with the publication of the winter issue of the NEWSLETTER will continue through the remainder of this year.

Mrs. Robert Coffman, director of Alumni Affairs, reports that the response thus far has been gratifying, but that we still have a long way to go.

Contributions to the Foundation are tax deductible. Funds are placed in trust, and income from the trust is presently used for the granting of one scholarship. Announcement of the 1965 scholarship holder will be made in the fall issue.

named in the near future according to Stanislawczyk who said various designs are being prepared and will be submitted to the group before any final decisions are made.

Becomes Third Head of College In Colorful Event

Governor, WVU Officials Among Those Attending Full Day of Activities

Dr. Todd Hupp Bullard became the third president of Potomac State College of West Virginia University in special inaugural ceremonies conducted on the campus on Thursday, April 8.

Hundreds of educators, representatives of various colleges and universities, faculty members, alumni, students, and friends of the college participated in the day's activities which included registration in the assembly room of the Science Hall, a noon luncheon in the college dining hall, the academic procession across campus to the gymnasium, the inauguration ceremony, and a reception honoring President and Mrs. Bullard in the library.

Okey B. Glenn, of Williamson, president of the Board of Governors, presided at the convocation which included musical selections by the Concert Band and the Potomac State Singers.

Greetings for the students were

Homecoming Date Set Oct. 9

We'll have no excuses for your not being here for Homecoming this fall, because we'll give you the date right now! It's OCTOBER 9. Get out the calendar and mark it!

We promise you a festive day of football, fall weather, and fine food, interspersed with meeting old friends and faculty members.

PLEASE COME!

College Planning Night Courses In Adult Education

Beginning with the fall term, Potomac State College will offer a program of technical adult education in evening courses, according to an announcement from President Todd H. Bullard.

That program and the addition of two members to the regular teaching staff have been made possible with the appropriation of $624,050 by the West Virginia State Legislature to Potomac State College for the 1965-66 year.

The adult education program will be chiefly of the terminal (two year) type of work. When fully developed, the program is intended to permit those who can attend classes in the evening only to complete terminal degree work within a specified length of time. In addition to scientific work, the program will also include some liberal arts work.

Residence Council Organized By Men

Former residents of Davis and Memorial Halls may be interested to learn of the establishment of a Men's Residence Council, which serves as the governing body of both dormitories.

The constitution of this organization provides for a Judiciary Committee and an executive committee to administer and enforce the code of conduct set forth.

The purpose of the organization is to give the male residents their own governing body. Each of the four floors of Davis and three floors of Memorial Hall are represented.

Alumni News Welcomed

We appreciate the notes and news items you sent to our office in response to our request in the Winter Newsletter. Again we say, "Don't be bashful; send us news about yourself." This is the only way many of your classmates have of hearing about you.

Former President, Dr. E. E. Church, Honored In Dedication of Yearbook

The 1965 CATAMOUNT yearbook has been dedicated to Dr. E. E. Church. Announcement was made jointly by Miss Sandra Staggs, Keyser, editor, and Prof. Dudley Gordon, faculty advisor. Dr. Church served as president of Potomac State College from 1936 to 1964.

The dedication reads as follows: "Rarely does there appear on the academic horizon a man of the caliber to whom we dedicate this book. He has been known as president, prexy, Ernie, Red, educator, administrator, civic devotee, religious leader, brilliant speaker, delightful conversationalist, interested listener, considerate counselor, inspirational leader, tireless worker, and friend to his colleagues. Proudly he has served the Keyser Presbyterian Church, Keyser Rotary, Keyser Boy Scouts, the Chamber of Commerce, Masons, Shrine, United Fund, and many educational institutions. For a score and eight years he wore the mantle of

President of Potomac State College and he gave the full measure of his deep devotion and boundless energy to the betterment of his college. Among his attributes was a concern for the individual—student, teacher, or parent. The faculty readily found inspiration and counsel in him; the hesitant freshman and diffident sophomore welcomed his assistance; and mothers and dads entrusted their children to his tutelage. Without any reservations, he served his community, state and nation with unstinted energy and enthusiasm. He lives in the hearts of those who were privileged to know him; he wrought well; his impressions on our campus will be lasting.

"Without any doubt, the scholar and gentleman, to whom this book is dedicated, will never be forgotten as long as Potomac State College exists. His hand was on the shaping of most of the campus buildings. His mind remains in the workings of our class offerings. His spirit is present in our worthy traditions and philosophies. In truth, our debt to him cannot be overestimated. He will forever live in the hearts of alumni and faculty who have known and loved him.

"The 1965 graduating class is the last group of students to enroll here when this eminent educator was president. It is only fitting then that we, the faculty, students, administrators, and all other employees, and the staff of the 1965 CATAMOUNT dedicate this book to Dr. Ernest Elliott Church with heartfelt gratitude, sincere affection, and our best wishes that God spare him for many years in good health and the happiness he so richly deserves. God speed, President Church, we do not consider you the man of the year, but the MAN OF THE YEARS as far as Potomac State College is concerned."

President Names Four Students As Laureate Scholars

Four Laureate Scholar Award recipients for 1965-66 at Potomac State College have been announced by President Todd H. Bullard.

They include: James R. Daugherty, Augusta, senior at Hampshire High School; Sharon Lynn Ridenour, senior at Ravenswood High School; Margaret Vorous, Kearneysville, senior at Charles Town High School; and Roy A. Whipp, Burlington, senior at Keyser High School.

These four join five students now freshmen who were selected last year in a pilot program established on the campus to see whether a genuine effort to provide maximum financial assistance to worthy West Virginia students who could not otherwise attend college would pay dividends. Apparently it did—for this year the laureate scholars maintained averages of B or better.

Honorary Group Taps Dr. Atwater

Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater, professor of journalism at Potomac State College, has been elected to honorary membership in the West Virginia University Chapter of Kappa Tau Alpha, national journalism honorary. Initiation ceremonies were conducted at the Journalism Awards luncheon on Saturday, May 8, at Mountlair.

The only other honorary membership was conferred on James A. Roberts, advertising director for Fostoria Glass Co., Moundsville. Two graduate students, three juniors, and two seniors also qualified for membership at WVU this spring.

Drama Directors at Lively Arts Weekend

PARTICIPATING in the Lively Arts Weekend here recently on campus were (l. to r.) Fred B. Hutchins, National Thespian Director from Englewood, N. J.; Prof. Dorothy Stone White of Frostburg State College; Miss Jane Chittom, director of the Allegany Community College (Cumberland, Md.) production; Mrs. Lennette Hardin, W.V.U. director; and Prof. Orval Anderson '39 PSC dramatics coach and chairman of the festival.

Many Alumni Return To Campus As College Sponsors Fine Arts Weekend

Many alumni were among those returning to the campus April 30 and May 1-2 for a series of programs planned by campus groups as part of a Fine Arts Weekend.

Opening the three day event was a motion picture, "Escapade In Japan," shown on Friday night at the Student Union. Members of the May Queen's court served genuine basket fired green Japanese tea during the movie.

Saturday was designated as Thespian Day with the dramatic groups from various high schools of the area being invited. The college cast of Delta Psi Omega, national dramatic honorary, conducted guests on a tour of the campus.

A convocation for Thespians was held in the gymnasium with greetings being extended by Rodger K. Parsons, Student Body president. The Keyser High School Thespians provided a medley of songs from Broadway musicals.

Fred B. Hutchins, New York City, National Thespian Society director, was principal speaker for the occasion. He was introduced by Miss Helen Smith, assistant national director, and drama coach at Fort Hill High School in Cumberland, Md. A buffet luncheon and dance followed in the Downstairs Theatre.

Guests then proceeded to the gymnasium for the coronation of Miss Suzanne Shelton as May Queen. Staged dramatic readings were given by groups from: West Virginia University, Frostburg (Md.) State College, Allegany Community College of Cumberland, Md., and Potomac State College. Through special arrangement with the author, Sidney Michaels, the Potomac State group did a condensation of the current Broadway production, "Dylan."

Thespians then returned to the Administration Building following the program for evaluation of the four college performances.

The traditional May Day dance was held in the Student Union on Saturday night with the Thespian visitors as guests of the Student Council. Special ceremonies at intermission honored the May Queen and her court.

On Sunday afternoon a concert was presented by the Potomac State Singers, Stage Band, and Concert Band in the gymnasium.

During the weekend several exhibits of art and artifacts were arranged for public viewing at various places on the campus. Included was a one-man show by the renowned artist, Adrian D. Clem, a native of Keyser now residing in Cresaptown, Md. Also included was an exhibit of oriental art and artifacts and a panoramic display of five double panels, masterpieces of Asian art.

Many students and faculty committees contributed toward the planning and execution of those plans for the colorful weekend program.

Pres. Bullard

brought by Rodger K. Parsons, Jr., president of the Student Body; for the faculty, Dr. Nancy M. Miller, professor of modern languages; for the alumni, Thomas J. Conlon, president of the Alumni Association; for the University, Dr. John F. Golay, provost; for the West Virginia Association of College and University Presidents, Dr. Richard E. Shearer, president of Alderson Broaddus College; and for the state, the Hon. Hulett C. Smith, Governor of West Virginia.

Invocation was given by the Rev. J. Andrew Gullick, Jr., pastor of the Keyser Presbyterian Church, and the benediction by the Very Rev. John J. O'Connell V.F., pastor of the Keyser Church of the Assumption.

Although he is the third man to head the institution since it became a junior college in 1921, President Bullard is the seventh person to head the school since it opened in 1902 as the Keyser Preparatory Branch of West Virginia University.

In his inaugural address, entitled "The Anatomy of a College," the new president pointed out that "higher education, now more than ever, is bound up in the most vital national processes.

The sheer magnitude of an enterprise involving nearly five million degree-seeking students and well over 2,000 institutions insures that our colleges and universities will occupy a place of importance in the country."

He said that "a college is comprised of many elements and its anatomy is governed by philosophy and tradition, by conscious plan and unforeseen circumstance." He then paid tribute to all who contribute to make a college what it is and pledged his interest and loyalty through the years that lie ahead.

In his remarks to the audience, Gov. Smith commented that "For Dr. Bullard this is a monumental event in a brilliant and successful career as an educator. West Virginia is proud of this native son, and joins with you at Potomac State College in sharing this pride today. Dr. Bullard assumes the presidency at a time when this college is in one of its most progressive eras. Potomac State is growing and expanding its physical plant at a most exciting rate. This college stands out as a shining example of what a junior college should be, and how it should plan its future."

The governor pledged "the cooperation, support and assistance" of the state government and concluded by saying that "All West Virginians wish you well and congratulate you; we will all be watching with great interest as you guide Potomac State College through one of its proudest times."
